Horticultural Sales Representative

Are you a self-starter, looking to partner as a Sales Representative with a privately-held company with an impressive stability of ownership? Do you have experience in the professional horticulture industry and would like to join a North American leading manufacturer of high quality soil mixes (you may better recognize us from our well-known PRO-MIX line)? If yes, you have knocked on the right door!

Not only will you oversee your own territory (San José to Santa Barbara, West to the I5) and ensure its growth, but you will be joining an experienced, knowledgeable and stable team that has developed over time a unique and diversified expertise.

We are seeking for a team member that wants to continue growing its sales career beyond the 3 to 5 years of experience that he or she already possess as a sales person in the horticulture industry or related sales fields.

Premier Tech Horticulture, a Business Unit of Premier Tech, is among the North American leaders of peat moss-based growing media production and distribution.

Driven by a multidisciplinary team of over 3,800 people located in the Americas, Europe and Asia, Premier Tech focuses on the development of its team members, on Innovation, and on the introduction of valued-added products and services to support its long-term growth.
